- 2022 Brooklyn Museum. Greetings and Theses. “An Evening with Lorraine O’Grady.” First screening of a film-in-progress that inaugurates O’Grady’s newest performance persona, The Knight, or Lancela Palm-and-Steel, on July 28, 2022. Made with footage shot at the Brooklyn Museum after her performance was canceled due to Covid-19. The film begins with O’Grady valiantly walking through her retrospective Both/And like an alien who’s never seen art before, wearing a 40-lb. suit of armor forged in white steel and an 8-lb. palm-tree headdress. It ends with her dancing in her carnivalesque suit of steel to a mix of three African Diaspora music genres of the Western Hemisphere—cumbia, Southern soul, and reggae. After the screening O’Grady, as herself, conversed with artist Sydney E. Vernon and curators Danielle A. Jackson, Catherine Morris, and Jenée-Daria Strand. [\[Web\]](#)
